

Strive Academy Adventure Vocabulary & Speed Reading Curriculum

Each week introduces new vocabulary words, definitions, and an adventure-themed speed-reading passage. Students practice the SAME vocabulary and passage every day of the school week using retrieval practice, spaced repetition, and fluency training. Inspired by the STRIVE™ learning protocol. ■filecite■turn0file0■L1-L5■

Kai tightened the straps on his backpack as the storm clouds rolled over the canyon. Today's mission was to investigate the ruins hidden deep inside the ancient cliffs beyond the river crossing. The map they discovered during last week's journey showed strange symbols carved near an underground chamber. Rumors said the place held lost resources once used by explorers who vanished more than one hundred years ago. As the team climbed over broken stone paths, they noticed mysterious markings glowing faintly on the walls. The deeper they traveled, the colder the air became. Suddenly, a loud crack echoed through the tunnel. Dust rained from the ceiling while everyone froze in silence. Kai lifted his lantern and realized they had discovered something no one else in Strive Academy had ever seen before.

Lena and her companion crossed the frozen bridge carefully while snow whipped across the mountain pass. Their mission was to explore an abandoned observatory hidden near the summit. According to the academy archives, the fragile building once protected a powerful crystal that could guide travelers during dangerous storms. The climb became harder as the wind grew stronger. Ice covered the path, and every step required balance and focus. When they finally reached the observatory, the doors creaked open slowly. Inside, old machines still hummed quietly beneath layers of frost. Lena examined a glowing compass on the table and began to conclude that the stories about the mountain were actually true.

Weekly Adventure Speed Read

The training alarms sounded across Strive Academy just before sunrise. Students rushed toward the launch field where engineers were preparing to construct a rescue glider for an emergency mission beyond the western desert. During the night, a research team disappeared while tracking unusual energy signals near the canyon border. Marcus felt astonished as he watched the giant engines ignite with blue flames. The academy instructors explained that survival would depend on teamwork, quick thinking, and the ability to observe changing weather patterns during the flight. Every tool aboard the glider was valuable, and even the smallest mistake could threaten the entire mission. By midday, the rescue team lifted into the sky and vanished beyond the distant cliffs.
